

Bearclaw Coffee goes on road

Thursday, November 15, 2007

The Bearclaw Coffee Co. is going mobile.

The Chelsea-based franchise, with its newest location at 2003 Horton Road, now has a small fleet of orange espresso trucks that stops by businesses during the week and goes to special events on weekends.

"We've had a lot of fun with this," company president Debi Scroggins said. "It's been a really good deal for us."

The trucks have kitchens with a full line of espresso and cappuccino equipment and serve the same lattes, mochas, coffee and smoothies as the stores.

The company has three trucks on the road and two on the way. While it doesn't have a route in Jackson yet, Scroggins said she sees a lot of potential here and is looking for a franchisee.

Arbor View adds U-Haul rentals

Arbor View M-106 Storage is diversifying.

The company, which opened about a year ago at 7236 Bunkerhill Road, added U-Haul truck and trailer rentals last month.

Owner Jim Gansmiller said he chose U-Haul because of the company's name and reputation, and he hopes the addition will not only help him draw new customers but better serve existing ones.
